FlexITy Recognized as Cisco's Global Collaboration Partner of the Year

RICHMOND HILL, ON (March 7, 2011) – As the leading provider of Unified Communications, Data Centre Technologies and Managed Services in Canada, FlexITy Solutions announces its receipt of the 2011 Global Collaboration Partner award by Cisco Systems.

This recognition comes as a result of FlexITy's core competency in architecting, designing, integrating and operating customer centric UC solutions as in the case for Canada's most advanced digital healthcare facility, Sault Area Hospital (SAH). The hospital, located in Sault Ste. Marie, opened its doors to patients on March 6, 2011, delivering leading-edge facility operations and clinical services for the first time to the residents of the Algoma Region.

“Sault Area Hospital is a visionary facility with one of the most comprehensive network solutions of its kind in Canada integrating communications, building automation systems and clinical solutions. One that supports the hospital's vision of providing excellence in healthcare,” stated Peter Stavropoulos, chief executive officer for FlexITy. “We are proud to work with such outstanding partners in Cisco Systems and EllisDon – without whom, we would never have been able to accomplish such a feat.”

As a longstanding partner of Cisco Systems, FlexITy has achieved unmatched levels of technical expertise, resulting in the following levels of Cisco certification:

- Gold Certified
- Master Unified Communications
- Master Security
- Master Managed Services

“Cisco is proud to partner with so many well-respected and industry-leading organizations worldwide; and it was my privilege to recognize FlexITy Solutions as a Cisco Partner Summit global award winner,” said Edison Peres, senior vice president, Worldwide Channels at Cisco. “The awards presented to FlexITy recognize its outstanding achievement as a Cisco channel partner throughout the world in 2011.”

Cisco Partner Summit global awards are designed to recognize the exemplary channel partners who demonstrate best-in-class business practices and serve as a model to the industry. Areas of consideration include innovative practices, applications successes, unique programs, problem-solving and sales approaches.

“While we measure our success upon the contribution we deliver to our client’s organizations, this recognition is truly special, as it is based on the outstanding achievements of our entire team, from the unmatched responsiveness of our pre and post sales support teams to the depth and breadth of our engineering and technical resources,” said Mr. Stavropoulos. “We continue to expand and strengthen our relationship with Cisco and these awards recognize our commitment and investment. Cisco is a valued partner for FlexITy who shares a common passion for supporting the evolving technology needs and business goals of organizations around the world.”

Mr. Stavropoulos accepted the award from Cisco CEO John Chambers at the annual Cisco Partner Conference held on March 1, 2011 in New Orleans, LA.
